NORMAL, ILLINOIS

VOLUME 75

1965

Perfection in the fragrance of a flower or milady who treasures it . . .

Failure and success—all in the bend of a straw . . .

The Mood of

Brilliant fall yellows are mellowed by the shadows of the enclosing branches.

the Moment Is Captured Forever

Letters home tell of college experiences.

ISU Fans Thrilled to Performances

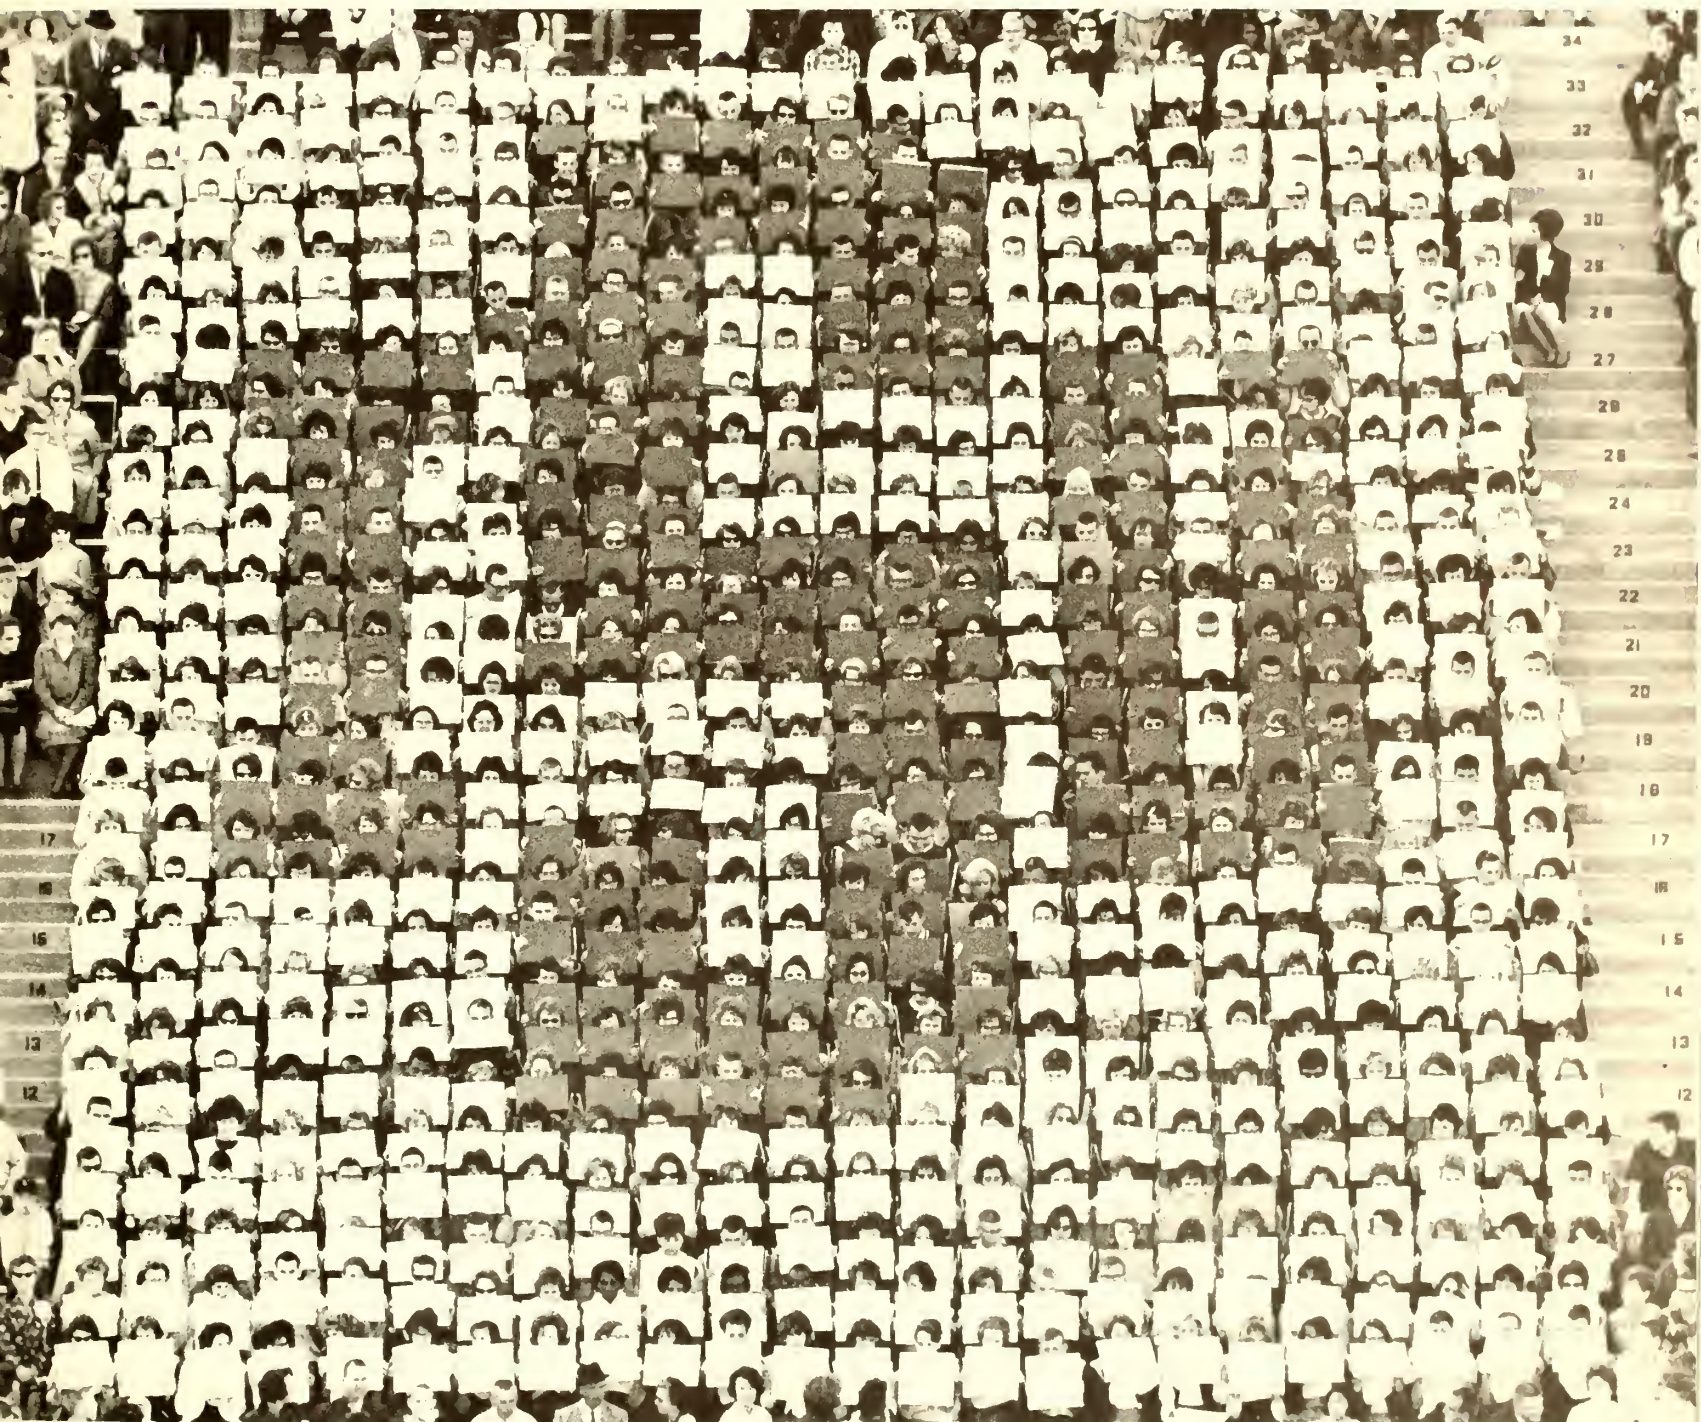

The new card section adds enthusiasm and cheers the team on to victory and success.

U Club purchased this 1922 fire engine from Granite City; it added color to games.

Card Section Popular Innovation

Blankets are a welcome warmth against short skirts and cold weather.

"I put the white card up; you put up the red."

As the card section flashes the words play boys, the band performs before Homecoming crowd.

Dave DiPaolo, official ringer, sounds the Victory Bell after touchdown.

"Well, hello, Bobby; welcome home, Bobby." Thousands of students, gathered in front of Hovey Hall, sing to President Bone after a six weeks' trip.

Surprised, President Bone greets students.

Co-chairman Judy Franke directed the efforts of the welcoming committee.

President Bone pauses a moment to reflect upon his study of Egyptian education.

Fred Fuehrer presents a scrapbook compiled by the welcoming committee.

Overcome with emotion, he expresses thanks.

Everyone turned out for his homecoming.

Our President Returns Home

Schroeder's annex helped crowded conditions.

The Union—hub of campus activities . . .

Buildings House a University

The new annex to Milner provides pleasant atmosphere.

Completion of the new science annex expands facilities.

The Student Independent stimulated controversy.

What Made This Year Memorable

Construction of the new annex to Schroeder closed the front entrance, creating confusion.

Local law authorities were alerted when the Social Science Club dropped a full-sized Mercury space capsule on campus.

A mock convention sponsored by the Young Republicans nominated Scranton President.

This student astronaut rests from his task of advertising "An Evening in Space."

The University Union is a favorite gathering spot for between-class socializing.

Campus Is Enjoyed by Students

The warmth of Indian summer entices a couple to stroll across campus.

The scene of frequent showers . . .

The walk between Schroeder and the dorms is a thoroughfare.

The enlarging campus has made bicycling a popular form of transportation.

The lawn of the quadrangle invites students to study on a sunny afternoon. Such comforts sometimes induce drowsiness.

Dorm Life Gives United Identity

Male students use the laundry facilities provided in the dorm.

Bob Steers finds that playing cards is a good form of relaxation.

Drina Krajic would rather sleep.

Hootenanny—a favorite pastime . . .

Girls like to congregate for fun and chatter, this group of coeds lives at the Bishop house.

Jerry McCann checks the tuna casserole.

Off-campus Living

Pat Callahan utilizes the facilities provided in this off-campus home.

This off-campus room provides Ken Johnson the implements of study.

Offers Home-like Atmosphere

Dinner at El-Adel is prepared by students who obviously enjoy eating.

A relaxed atmosphere in the Union lounge . . .

A Picture Study of Studying

"Are you sure you don't want to go to the Cage for a coke?"

Sometimes study requires full concentration.

A lovely girl at your side and a chance to combine notes . . . it's a great way to study.

All the comforts of home in the new annex to Milner . . . take off your coat, put up your feet, relax, and study.

An atmosphere of questioning should exist in the classroom.

The print shop is an unique classroom.

The Classroom is a Common Bond

Taking notes is classroom procedure.

Sometimes classroom experiences are very pleasant.

Then again the classroom experience can be a pain.

A C E

Sponsorship of a penny drive to raise money for equipping a school in Sierre Leone and a lecture by a pediatrician who discussed the maintenance of childhood health were activities of the Association for Childhood Education this year.

BLACKFRIARS

In their thirty-second year at ISU, these young men formed their own alumni association to provide a nucleus for graduated brothers and to support ISU spirit. Other events were six weeks of pledging, a Playboy party, and the annual Blackfriar Show.

ENGLISH CLUB

Included in the English Club program were trips to see the dramatic productions Antigone at Bradley University and Inherit the Wind at the University of Illinois Theatre. Dr. John Heissler gave a lecture on the "Encounters in Student Teaching."

FORENSICS UNION

The Forensics Union, a general coordinator of all speech activities on campus, sponsored the ISU-Oxford debate on the proposition that society needs a welfare state. Members also sponsored a debate between Illinois State and Northwestern.

FORENSICS UNION Linda Krueger, president; Helen Copeland, vice-president; Mary Skinner, secretary-treasurer. Not Pictured: Karen Halvorson, adviser.

GEOGRAPHY CLUB Seated: Sharon Curley, secretary; Gloria Thomas, vice-president; Clay Loudon, president. Standing: Thomas Small, Dave Berglund, treasurer.

GEOGRAPHY CLUB

Mr. Robert Gardula spoke on "The Effects of Weathering on the Inhabitants of the Coastal Region" to the members of the Geography Club. The club combined their talents with the members of Gamma Theta Upsilon to sponsor a spring dance.

GERMAN CLUB

With the purpose of promoting an interest in German culture and language, monthly meetings as well as informal coffee clatches were held by this club. A trip to Chicago to see a German film and to dine at a German restaurant ended the year.

GERMAN CLUB Erika Takacs, president; Charlotte Tutas, vice-president; Mary Grant, secretary; Volker Rieser, treasurer; William Fuehrer, adviser.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Guided by the theme "Home Economics—Our Family Tree," home economic students explored the role of FHA sponsors with Miss Catherine Carter at their February meeting. Dr. Joseph Albrecht of Springfield discussed marriage and the family.

ILLINOIS STATE RIFLES

The thirty-five members of the Illinois State Rifles competed in several matches: one with the Oglethorpe Women's College of Georgia, one against Bradley, and another match at Rockford. The club also sponsored a dance held the first week in March.

ILLINOIS STATE RIFLES Seated: David Martin, Gerry Griffin, secretary-treasurer; David Daniel, president; Ellen Abshire, adviser. Standing: Ross Muench, adviser.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

While planning the regional Industrial Education exhibit and serving as judges for high school shows, members of the Industrial Arts Club supplemented their classroom knowledge. Projects were the Student Directory and the winning Homecoming float.

INTER-GROUP RELATIONS COUNCIL

An inter-racial panel from Kansas City, Missouri, gave a panel discussion in the spring to the members of the Inter-Group Relations Council. This panel, consisting of seven women representing four denominations, discussed current problems.

INTER-GROUP RELATIONS COUNCIL Margo Nechine, treasurer; Karen Schobel, secretary; Lonnie Salter, president; James Carl, adviser.

JUNIOR HIGH CLUB Mary Ann Kleczewski, treasurer; Elizabeth Sutter, recording secretary; Pamela Mansfield, corresponding secretary; Oletta Saupe, vice-president; Henry Hermanowicz, adviser; Sally Krizan, president.

JUNIOR HIGH EDUCATION CLUB

Listening to a student teacher relate his experiences, discussing problems with a student panel, and receiving advice for appropriate courses for the curriculum were ways in which the Junior High Club sought to understand the junior high.

LA ESTUDIANTINA

In addition to hearing talks by ISU students on their Mexican travels, La Estudiantina had their annual Spanish dinner. The Christmas party, the club's most important activity, featured the observance of foreign customs and sampling of foods.

LA ESTUDIANTINA Seated: Tom Hayek, vice-president; Kay Gunnarson, secretary-treasurer; Jonathan Johnston, president. Standing: Lillie Griffin, Luellen Watson, adviser.

LATIN CLUB

A get-acquainted picnic for freshmen, a field trip to the University of Illinois, and increased membership highlighted the activities of the Latin Club. Members participated in a Foreign Language Homecoming Tea and a Christmas party.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Dr. Tarrant's presentation to a student recipient of a medal secured from the French Embassy was one of the activities offered by Le Cercle Francais. French topics were discussed before an average attendance which jumped to thirty students.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS Gwen Hoover, president; Sue Hudak, vice-president; Linda Hollander, secretary; Pat Durbin, treasurer; Patrick Tarrant, adviser.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

The 65 members of the Math Club attended a talk by Dr. William Hodges of Illinois State on functional identities. Besides advancing interests and abilities in math, the club, largest in its history, planned a dance, a Christmas party, and a picnic.

MEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB

The Men's P.E. Club held a cheerleading clinic with 1800 girls attending. The leaders and demonstrators were Mr. L. A. Herkimer and Mrs. Stella Gillb. Members also were College Day guides and attended a professional hockey game at Chicago.

MEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB Seated: Wayne DeMaar, vice-president; Ed Biehl, president; Milt Weisbecker, adviser. Standing: Richard Regez, treasurer; Jack Ramsey, secretary.

NAACP

The presentation of the third place Distinguished Service Award at the national convention climaxed the year for the ISU chapter of NAACP. In keeping with national events the chapter sponsored a program "The Merits of the Civil Rights Bill."

NATURALIST CLUB

Proud of the fact that they are one of the oldest clubs on campus and proud of the new addition to the science building, the Naturalist Club held two departmental picnics in addition to their monthly meetings. They organized an honorary fraternity.

NATURALIST CLUB Seated: Pam Schovain, treasurer; Fred Hill, vice-president; Dave Kilgus, secretary; Ken Jackson, president. Standing: Robert Weigel, adviser; Dale Birkenholz, adviser.

PHI BETA LAMBDA

Phi Beta Lambda proved that computers are not infallible by having a dance at which couples were matched by a computer. During its initial year at Illinois State, the organization strove toward improving scholarship and developing leadership.

PHYSICAL SCIENCE CLUB

The Physical Science Club planned many activities around the Felmley Science Hall annex. The club also sponsored its annual spring and fall picnics and an all school dance in January. Members celebrated Christmas with a members only party.

Speakers for Clubs

A club would not be a club unless sometime in the school year it sponsored a guest speaker. It matters not if he be a familiar professor or a scholar of great renown; he is usually viewed by his audience with hopeful anticipation. He may lecture; he may discuss; he may even ask questions. His topic may range from a world crisis in the African states or the latest fashions on Fifth Avenue. Still, he has information to share that someone deemed important enough to lure students from their books. But at times the high hopes of an expectant audience vanish. The muffled yawn and the vacant stare are sure signs that the speaker might just as well proceed immediately to his conclusion.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

A debate between the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans intensified both election spirit on campus and their fall activities. The group also invited 200 campus leaders to spend an "Evening in Space" with Mr. Hage of McDonnell Aircraft.

Speakers can bring new worlds to an audience.

SPECIAL EDUCATION CLUB

The Special Education Club centered its activities around three groups: the Y-night activity which sent counselors to the YMCA, the student CEC, and the Fairchild Hall group. The Student CEC participated with the CEC chapter in Bloomington.

STUDENT EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Highlighting the activities of the Student Education Association was the state convention held on campus November 6 and 7. The theme of the convention, "How Education Safeguards Our Liberties," was interpreted by a Mr. Novak film.

STUDENT EDUCATION ASSOCIATION Standing: Morton Waimon, adviser. Seated: Ruth Landis, president; Lorna Beall, treasurer; Kathryn Ragsdale, Sharon Morse, vice-president; Carol Barr, secretary.

STUDENT PSYCHOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION

Members of the Student Psychological Association sponsored a trip to the Wesleyan psychological laboratory and a field trip to the Peoria State Hospital. A series of lectures and films aided the members in understanding the study of psychology.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB

A goal set . . . a goal met. Few clubs claim one hundred per cent membership of eligible seniors and ninety-eight per cent of juniors, but at an autumn retreat, the goal was set and met. Two hundred members gained professional knowledge.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB Seated: Karen Held, secretary; Joy Read, treasurer; Jan Axelson, vice-president; Eunice Keeton, president; Lois Litherland, Jeri Tatje, Jan Harton, Nancy Zbikowski. Standing: Ellen Abshire, adviser; Betty Keough, adviser; Cheryl Tillery, Pat Ruzicka, Martha Sprecher, Sharon Andrews, Kathie Jahns, Diane Crichfield.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

"Win in '64" was the theme of the first dance of the year given by the Young Democrats. Students filled four buses to see President Johnson and Vice President Humphrey at Peoria. Senator Douglas spoke on "Johnson vs. Goldwater" in the fall.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

The 550 members of the Republican Club stimulated interest in the Republican Party by holding the first mock convention on campus. Members worked closely with gubernatorial candidate Charles Percy. They helped with election canvassing.

With a three year tradition of All-American ratings, this year's Index staff had quite a record to uphold. And so work was initiated on the Index 1965 as soon as the 1964 edition was completed and in the hands of students. The core of responsibility was divided among the photographic, layout, and the literary staffs. Two photographers took the hundreds of pictures that were in turn submitted to the layout editor who chose the final prints. The next task was the arrangement of those pictures on the dummy page. The literary staff collected information and then described in written words ISU 1964-1965. Other responsibilities were shared between the business and assistant business managers. The editorial position involved pre-planning and general direction.

The black cover of tradition and dignity emphasized the little-known fact that the yearbook was seventy-five years old this year; the bright end sheets and division pages were a reminder that Illinois State University is advancing to fulfill its expectations as a modern and progressive university.

Our adviser was Mr. Scott Eatherly.

A pretty girl is the favorite subject for the yearbook photography staff of Terry Steinbach, Brian Smith, Gene Hodel, and Arnold Jochims.

The editorial staff of Judy Mathieson, Carol Pugsley, Karen Druec, Linda Bell, and Maureen Brady did the jobs of typing, cutting, and pasting.

Rich Russell, business manager, pulled the purse strings and balanced the books.

Nancy Munger served as assistant editor.

Blending Tradition and Progress

Assistant business manager, Joyce Stevenson, assists her staff of Suzanne Tardiff, Tonia Svoboda, and Connie Tanis.

Ed Ceres was sports editor this year.

VIDETTE Editors

Editor Karen Vasos was tied up in her work second semester.

Marsha Lyons, editor of the Vidette first semester, performed many tasks.

The Vidette took on a new look this year. After the first semester, the paper switched from a five-column tabloid to a seven-column broadsheet. This increased size placed an extra burden on the newspaper staff, but they still strived for the old goals of accuracy, honesty, and widespread campus coverage. To achieve these goals, a Vidette reporter spends many hours each week writing and gathering material in interviews and research. Other members of the staff work on page layout, copy editing, sports editing and writing, circulation, photography, advertising, proofreading, and business management for the twice weekly publication. Being on the Vidette staff is an exciting experience. It forces the individual to be knowledgeable about current campus events and world affairs, and the team-effort atmosphere provides an excellent opportunity to form friendships.

Successful papers mean proofreading . . .

Widespread Campus News Coverage

Mr. Tudor served as adviser.

Penny Weise was business manager.

AWS

Coeds United

The Association of Women Students underwent a structural change this year. Instead of the Central Board and the Executive Board, the club now consists of the Executive Board and the Policy Board. A new constitution was passed with elected representatives from each district forming the Policy Board. Activities of AWS in conjunction with University Club included a watermelon eating contest, a freshman mixer, and an all-school mixer during Orientation week. Members of AWS worked with University Club on Dad's Day, Mom's Day weekend, Campus Cues, and the DeYoung Lecture Series. Services to the campus and the community provided by the club included Homecoming mum sale, Easter baskets for the needy, and the 20th carnival.

UNIVERSITY CLUB

Spirit and Service

A new sight at football games was the "Redbird Special," which was bought by the University Club. This 1922 American La France fire engine was purchased from the Granite City Fire Department with a silver dollar minted in 1922. This engine and a Redbird rally were U Club's part in promoting school spirit. During Orientation week, U Club sponsored with AWS a watermelon eating contest, a freshman mixer, and an all-school dance. The members worked with AWS on Campus Cues, Dad's Day, Mom's Day weekend, and the DeYoung Lecture Series. Services to the community included a booth at the AWS Carnival and a Christmas food drive. The biggest event of this year and every year was the Stunt Show. This year the 46th annual Stunt Show was held on April 29 and 30 and May 1.

Link for Campus

"Would the secretary please read the minutes from the previous meeting?" In November, the Student Senate sent delegates to a convention in Oklahoma for better communications between student governments at various universities. In March Senate adopted the constitution of the Organization of Associated Student Governments, which evolved from the fall convention. The operations committee reported that the new road signs directing traffic in the Bloomington-Normal area to the campus were installed. The Senate was also represented at the first youth leadership convention held at Western Illinois University in April. "Are there any corrections or additions to the minutes? Then they will stand approved as read. Treasurer's report?"

UNIVERSITY UNION BOARD

Tenth Birthday

May marked the tenth year anniversary of the University Union. The occasion was celebrated by an open house in the Union and a birthday party. The best players of table tennis, billiards, bridge, and chess traveled to Indiana University to participate in tournaments with other colleges and universities. Members sponsored the Bonfire Bounce for Homecoming and the Sweetheart Ball in February. Over semester break, a group of students traveled to Galena, Illinois, for the annual ski trip. During the summer several students were given the chance to see Europe, a Union-promoted tour.

A record dance sponsored by the Union Board utilizes the facilities of the Union.

WGLT

"You're on the air," says the engineer as he eues one of the many WGLT announcers to begin a twelve-hour day of programming for ISU students. Because of the increased air time, the staff rose to a new total of more than eighty members. WGLT has also received a new location on the third and fourth floors of Cook Hall. This added space made it possible for the station to have one central location with offices and a studio. In April, an open house was sponsored to give the campus an opportunity to see the station after seven semesters.

Regularly scheduled newscasts were made available with the addition of a United Press International ticker tape in the fall. Thirteen news easts were presented daily to keep students informed.

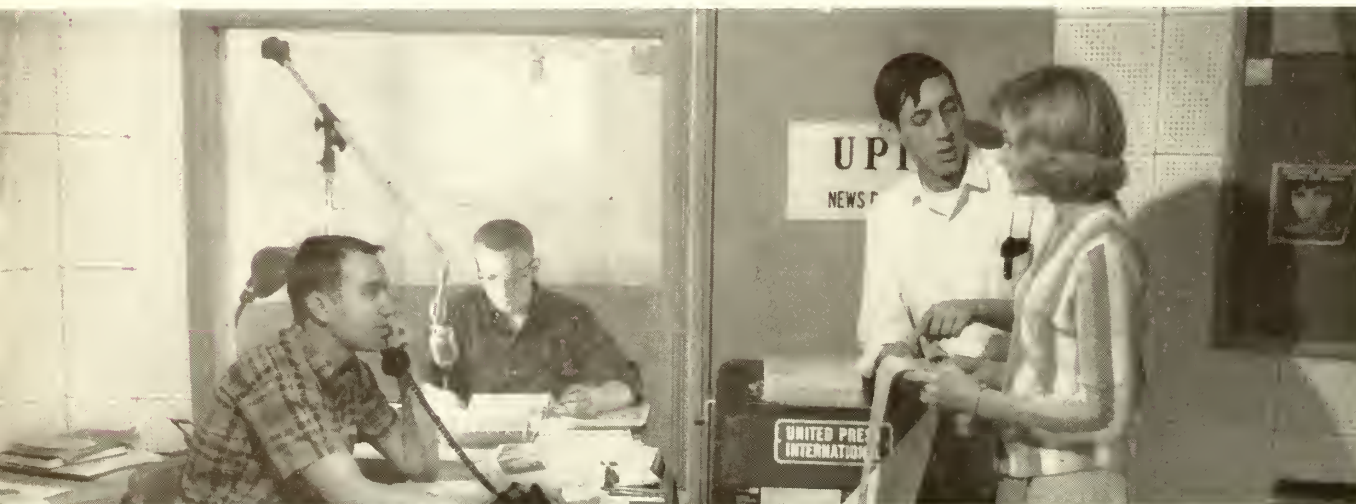

Members of the staff Rick Beckhart, Jerry Perschnick, and Marty Lewis, work at the WGLT record library.

Students at WGLT broadcast basketball games on the spot to the students from their crow's-nest.

Frank Smucker, Ray Young, Wayne Redenbarger, and Sherry Sikkema work with the new UPI ticker tape.

United by the Emotion of Song

Music is a universal language, understood by those who share a common love and heritage for the finest in music. Illinois State University's choirs and bands sing and play the compositions of many foreign composers. Although the words may be meaningless, the beauty and art of the musical work is still appreciated by the performers and the audience.

Joint concerts in November, February, and May were presented by the Oratorio and University

Choirs. University Choir was one of the participating organizations in the Christmas presentation of the Messiah. In February the choir went on tour, appearing at Eisenhower, Blue Island, Bogan, Warren, Fox Valley, and Lake Zurich high schools. The final concert of the tour was presented for the Association for Student Teaching at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago. On March 25, the University Choir sang Bloch's Sacred Service, accompanied by the Symphony Orchestra. A special concert was given for the district meeting of the Illinois Music Educators. The year closed for the choir at Commencement.

The Treble Choir sang at Wesleyan for the Bloomington-Normal Women's Club in a December concert. Concert performances were presented on December 18 and March 11. Treble Choir accompanied Women's Chorus on their tour of April 6 and 7. The voices of Treble Choir, Women's Chorus, and Men's Glee Club were combined in a concert.

It was the special privilege of the Men's Glee Club to introduce the new fight song at the Homecoming game. Other special school events for which the Glee Club sang were the Christmas tree lighting ceremony, Sweetheart Ball, and the Mother's Day service. In November the choir presented a program for the Normal Rotary. On April 27 and 28 the Men's Glee Club toured the cities of Clinton, Decatur, Pana, Assumption, and Springfield. Coming from the membership of the Glee Club is the Octet, which toured with the Glee Club. This smaller group, accompanied by Tubal Holmes, also performed special numbers. A new group, the High Five, came from members of the Men's Glee Club.

The Women's Chorus presented concerts in November, December, and April. On May 20 a special concert was held with the Treble Choir and the Glee Club. Tour concerts were given on April 6 and 7 at Streator, Plainsfield, Monce, Pontiac, and Fairbury.

Vocal concerts were not the only offerings for Illinois State University music lovers. The Orchestra presented a concert on November 17, for which Mr.

Drums and saxophones take the lead in this number.

Moskovitz was the guest soloist. The Orchestra played the instrumental score for the Messiah and also accompanied the University Choir in their presentation of Ernst Bloch's Sacred Service. Tour was taken in May at Lincoln, Quincy, and Peoria.

Varsity Band held concert with the Concert Band on February 25. Their own concerts were presented on May 18 and April 6. On May 6 Concert Band was heard in concert. They toured on April 19-21 in Tonic, Coal City, Eureka, Cuba, Table Grove, and Gary, Indiana. It was the Concert Band that played for senior Commencement services this year.

The Marching Band performed at all home football games. Also the band traveled to games at Eastern Illinois University and Wesleyan University, where they performed their precision routines. The Stage Band provided the background music for the Gamma Phi Circus, going on tour with the circus throughout the state. They held their own concert dance in May for students and faculty.

A new program of classical movies was initiated this year by the Jesters. This program was so successful that in years to come the administration is going to sponsor them. Among some of the films shown were The Cabinet of Doctor Caligare, Birth of a Nation, and the original Lon Chaney's Hunchback of Notre Dame. For the third year, Jesters and Theta Alpha Phi co-sponsored an all-student University Theatre production. Jane Adams was student director of that play, "Time of Your Life," which was presented in March. By sponsoring these films and the student production, Jesters fulfilled its role of bringing theatre in its many forms to the students.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Emotion and Inspiration

The show closes and the applause is fading for the last University Theatre production of the season, "Measure for Measure." The applause, however, will continue into the summer when a group of our finest actors will travel to Miami, Florida, to put on a production of "Reynard the Fox." As a new feature on the program this season, University Theatre sponsored a thesis production of "Miss Julia." In September, Theta Jesters began work on "Time of Your Life," which was produced entirely by students. As the applause dies in Westhoff, our representatives prepared to perform on Yale's campus in the Ninth Annual Yale Festival of Undergraduate Drama. The curtain slowly closes on another successful year.

Good plays mean back-breaking work.

The executive members of this organization conduct the business at each monthly meeting by parliamentary rules.

No club could function without the perennially boring business meeting; for it is a well conducted business meeting that gives direction and structure to plans and dreams of both the officers and club members. Old business; new business . . . parliamentary procedure seems an unnecessary formality yet it gives stability and structure to what might otherwise be a useless pooling of non-related ideas.

APOSTOLIC CHRISTIAN BIBLE CLASS

An Easter program consisting of speakers from other churches throughout the state and regular Thursday evening classes constituted the meetings of the Apostolic Christian Bible Class. An atmosphere of fellowship was the principal product.

HONOR RESIDENTS

Late Hour Duty

An honor resident is one who burns the candle at both ends. In addition to counseling the girls on her floor, she also works on skits for the girls in September, for Homecoming, for Halloween, for Stunt Show, and for Christmas. This year the honor residents became ghosts for the Halloween skit and paraded in front of the dormitories. The workshop for honor residents was held on May 22 and 23 at Lake Bloomington. They had many meetings, some with university professors who gave talks on counseling. Those exchanges were helpful to the new honor residents especially. Honor residents are busy but helpful, happy people.

Duties include selling guest meal tickets at the desk.

HOMECOMING QUEEN

An Aura of Majesty

Five queenly coeds were finalists for this year's Homecoming royalty. These five girls—Kathy Cummings, Cathy DeYoung, Audrey Farrell, Sharon Matas, and Kathy Pizzimenti—were first screened by Homecoming Board, consisting of both teachers and students, and were finally chosen by the student body. The Queen and her court were announced the Friday before Homecoming at the Queen's Dance. Homecoming week Queen Kathy attended three luncheons, the Young Men's Club and the Rotary Clubs of both Normal and Bloomington, where she invited the members to attend ISU's Homecoming. With her court, Kathy dined at four local restaurants and also had films taken for television. In the Homecoming parade, the Queen and her court rode on a float of vivid fall colors in the design of leaves. The girls watched the football game from a special platform, where all could look upon ISU's lovely royalty. Kathy, radiant in a pale pink taffeta dress with a small train and wearing a tiara of sparkling stones, was formally presented, along with her court, at the Homecoming dance. Kathy Pizzimenti reigned as a very lovely and gracious Homecoming Queen.

An outhouse and castle are contrasts, but each captured first. El-Adel Co-op won this year while Walker Hall repeated a victory.

Tensions Released

The snake dance began the weekend's festivities with the crack of a whip.

After weeks of planning and preparation, the students of Illinois State University had the house decorations ready for competition, the alumni, and the judges. The outward, physical signs of the 1964 Homecoming at ISU were in many different forms, but all revolved around the theme "Halloween Holiday." There were caldrons, witches' laughter, spider webs, skeletons, buzzards, and Halloween stories portrayed in vivid colors, and all were original portrayals of the holiday Homecoming. Taking first place for the on-campus house decoration, the men of Walker Hall presented a haunted castle with numerous moving parts, which fascinated all observers. El Adel Co-op depicted the scene of a workable, over-turning outhouse, which placed first in competition as an off-campus house decoration.

These winning entries were announced after ceremonies Friday evening at the gigantic bonfire, built and guarded in the Homecoming spirit by members of the University Club. At the bonfire lively cheers of the student body who were led by the cheerleaders gave the ISU team an incentive to defeat Mankato State. The Bobby Bone victory bell was rung and even though President Bone was in Egypt,

The crowd eagerly applauds and impatiently awaits the presentation of Queen Kathy and court.

Variety to Homecoming

his spirit of a big smile and a red vest seemed to permeate the crowd and manifest itself in the traditions of Homecoming at ISU.

The long Homecoming parade on Saturday consisted of many high school bands from all over the state, floats of different classes and clubs, and individual student entries. The antics of the participants in the parade were enjoyed by all. After the parade open houses and receptions were held on campus for the benefit of the students, parents, and alumni. Throughout the campus, alumni became aware of progress at ISU; the alumni saw, for the first time in ISU's history, a card section at the game in the afternoon. The stands were filled to overflowing, and the team was winning. At half-time the band went through precision formations, and the new card section flashed pictures of flags, pumpkins, and other pictorial symbols.

After winning the game, ISU students, friends, and alumni completed a perfect Homecoming with a dance. It was a festive occasion with an owl watching over the dancers. As the last song was played and everyone started to leave, many thoughts crossed the minds of the couples: memories of a bonfire, a parade, a game, and a dance. For some it was their first college Homecoming, and for others it was their last; but for all it was a fusion of the traditions of the past and the innovations of the future at Illinois State University.

Campus Sparkles during Holidays

Traditional Christmas festivities began at Illinois State University with the annual madrigal dinners, sponsored by the University Union. President Bone presided at the tree lighting ceremony where students, thinking nostalgically of past Christmases, looked at the beautiful tree and listened to the Men's Choir. The Messiah effected a deviation from the traditional. For the first time faculty members participated. The soloists were James Roderick, Gretchen Smith, Lawrence Rieker, and Peggy Klein.

The center of campus was dominated by a glowing tree.

Elaborate costuming enhances the madrigals.

Students from the Music department played carols in near-zero temperatures for tree lighting.

Students, faculty, and Bloomington-Normal residents enjoyed merriment and music-making at madrigals.

BIG FOUR On Their Own

The Big Four Committee gained its independence this year. With its new constitution, the Committee is no longer associated with the Association of Women Students and the University Club. Richard Maltby, Glenn Miller, Peter Palmer, and Billy Maye were the performing bands at ISU. The Committee, under Paul Ziert and Lynda Lane, also continued to sponsor a special concert for season ticket holders. This year's special, the Lettermen, were the highlight of the season with stylistic offerings of folk, old, and show songs. The teamwork of the Big Four's sixty-five members led to their success.

DANCES

Heart of Spring

San Francisco was the setting for the Sophomore Cotillon. Chinatown served as the atmosphere for the lobby of the University Union, where the dance was held. A large mural of a street scene in China and a rickshaw depicted the culture of San Francisco. "A Golden Dream" was portrayed in the ballroom by overhanging clouds and beautiful spring trees, adding a dreamy feeling to the spring air.

From spring one moves to a wintry climate, but the glow of love adds warmth at the Sweetheart Ball, "Here's My Heart." The dancers were surrounded on all sides by small and large hearts symbolizing the Valentine mood. The gaiety of the Cotillon carried over to the world of hearts and cupids.

ENTERTAINMENT BOARD

Variety and Quality

A scene from Tyrone Guthrie's version of HMS Pinafore . . .

Variety and quality were two characteristics of the series of performances presented by the Entertainment Board. The Touring Theatre, Inc. presented Edgar Lee Master's Spoon River and Gilbert and Sullivan's HMS Pinafore. More entertainment came when the Russian dancers performed in Capen Auditorium. Mantovani and his concert orchestra, using a wide selection of music—from classics by Liszt to popular songs by Bernstein—provided good listening for the enormous audience at Horton Fieldhouse. Roger Williams, known as "Mr. Piano," and the Dutton Ensemble entertained the audience with a concert of popular and classical favorites. This series of performances provided variety and quality.

AWS CARNIVAL

Cotton Candy Whirled

McCormick Gymnasium was disguised as a carnival attraction when the AWS Central Board, in cooperation with a variety of campus organizations, sponsored the spring carnival. Booths featured a human Monopoly game, a car smash, and a portrait painter. A favorite booth which drew crowds of on-lookers was the beauty shop where inexperienced male beauticians fashioned the latest hairstyles on horrified coeds. Many students enjoyed the record dance provided by another of the sponsoring groups. The carnival entitled "Cotton Candy Whirled" was directed by AWS Central Board President Betty Gilehrst. All the proceeds from this evening of fun were donated to the local Baby Fold to further its work among homeless children.

GAMMA PHI

A Colorful Circus

After many weeks of practice and anticipation, the talents of Gamma Phi Circus are brought before a crowd of circus enthusiasts. The atmosphere makes one feel as if he is under the big top—the smell of sawdust, excitement in the air, and, for the adults, an old nostalgia. The members of Gamma Phi make the circus atmosphere more vivid with aerial acts, unicycle performances, and trampoline exhibitions. The antics of clowns in striped pants and funny hats are unforgettable to the youngster.

The Gamma Phi members gave an excellent performance even though their experience was limited. Their practices were hard; their hours were long. But a professional-like circus resulted. An extra attraction was the Gamma Phi Queen, Janet Drew Hubble, who was chosen by the whole campus. It was her honor to reign over this circus pageant, and her royalty made for a more colorful circus.

STUNT SHOW

Walker-Fell Captures Prize

The forty-fifth annual Stunt Show pooled the talent of dormitory dwellers and faculty to entertain the visiting mothers on Mom's Day weekend. Four stunts were provided by the residents of Walker-Fell, Dunn-Barton, Hamilton-Whitten, and Atkin-Colby Halls. The faculty presented a stunt entitled "Seminar on School Drop-outs," which featured a vocal solo by President Bone in Bermuda shorts. Interspersed between the stunts were three continuity acts including the Oxford Trio, singer Vita Scott, and magician Marshall Ellenstein. The judges awarded first and second prizes to Walker-Fell and Dunn-Barton Halls respectively. The first stunt entitled "Local-Motive" centered around the problem of bringing a railroad to the city of Lamron. Dunn-Barton's portrayed the era of pirates and pirateering. The remaining two stunts from Hamilton-Whitten and Atkin-Colby received participation awards. The first demonstrated the deficiencies in the educational system of Cook Castle while the second depicted the question of what to send to the World's Fair.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Gladly Serving

Each year the members of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity provide service to the ISU campus. What could be more amusing than seeing clowns direct the scurrying traffic during the Homecoming parade? An annual APO Revue, held in the fall, helped a crippled children's camp at Lake Bloomington. Members worked hard to promote student participation in two blood bank drives and a Heart Fund dance, given in the spring. APO participated in the adoption program by sponsoring a foster child in Europe.

LOWELL MASON—MENC

Spring Melodies

Music majors, minors, and resource people began the year with a Homecoming reception. Later in the year they participated in the APO Revue and also went to Chicago for the Midwest Band Clinic. The annual spring production was "Kiss Me, Kate," Cole Porter's musical play, which appeared March 19-22 in Capen Auditorium. Much time and effort went into this Broadway presentation that is a play within a play. The combination of talent and hard work made this a successful production.

VARUNAS

Aquatic Art

Changing emphasis from synchroization to aquatic art, Varunas swim show was centered around perfumes. "Enchantment," the beginning act, featured all the cast members; "Prophecy" was the grand finale. Aquatic art involves the presentation of ideas while synchroization involves patterns. Girls try out for Varunas by going through tests of strokes and stunts; they are then placed in groups according to ability. This year Varunas presented a demonstration for PEM Club, but the main event of the year was the annual swim show. Varunas is an unique club and fulfills the extracurricular interests of many students.

GRADUATION

The Final Test

Graduation creeps up on the senior. He is immersed in filling out credentials, student teaching, and then that impossible day arrives. Most seniors are unaware of the preparations being made for this special day, but a student-faculty commencement committee begins to lay plans early in second semester. While the senior is caught up in the scurry of ordering graduation announcements and being fitted for cap and gown, his representatives on the commencement committee are contacting possible speakers and investigating the alternatives for the class gift. Seniors of the class of 1965 were the first graduates to receive their degrees inside. Horton Fieldhouse was chosen by the commencement committee as the site of graduation 1965.

The future awaits at the end of this walk.

The cap and gown lends to the atmosphere of pomp and circumstance that prevades at every graduation ceremony.

Spirited Sounds on Campus

Students returned to school in the fall, and along with the crunching of leaves was a new sound on campus; it was the Bobby Bone Victory Bell. The peal of the bell signified victory; cheering crowds replied with spirited yells. Organized pep was led by the varsity cheerleaders Sandy Marquiss, Sharon Blakeman, Mary Anne Smeltzer, Shirley Stumm, Ann Walter, Barbara White, and Karen Klasing. They were supported by the freshman squad of Joann Adams, Jane Orr, Jalaine Riechers, Pat Siwinski, and Rachel Mueller. The red and white blur before the stand symbolized school spirit and became an incentive to Illinois State spectators to support and cheer their team on to victory.

Although they may have cold legs from their short skirts, their warmth of spirit is felt at the game.

INTRAMURALS

For Everyone

Something for everyone is the key to the men's intramural program at Illinois State University. Under the direction of Dr. Eugene Hill the Men's Physical Education department offered an intramural program which was designed to provide relaxing, purposeful recreation for ISU's male student body.

The intramural program, consisting of eleven different sports activities, was divided into two basic groups including a tournament program and a recreational program. In the tournament program male students formed teams and competed in round robin and elimination tournaments while individual activities such as golf and swimming were offered to the student body for relaxing recreational releases.

The activities offered by the intramural department included track, volleyball, water polo, swimming, golf, wrestling, basketball, flag football, tennis, and softball. The entire program functioned under the roof and the adjoining fields of the Horton Physical Education plant and boasted of participation by sixty per cent of all male students.

FOOTBALL

Posts Five Wins

With John Court's passing and Stan Petty's catching Illinois State University began and ended their 1964 season on winning notes. All was not happiness, however, with State compiling a season's record of five victories and four defeats.

Highlights of the season came with two wins brought about by Stan Petty's field goals and a 27-6 Homecoming victory over Mankato State. A 27-21 thriller over IIAAC co-champion Western Illinois also created football interest. Of the four ISU defeats only Indiana State bettered the Redbirds by a large margin, as they ran away with a 26-7 win. Illinois State appeared on the way to victory against Bradley University and Northern Illinois but faltered in the second half in both contests. The only other defeat came at the hands of conference foe Central Michigan. State, without the services of regular quarterback John Court, dropped a heartbreaker.

Despite a little better than average season, Illinois State's Birdies provided a dramatic close to their year by responding to the challenge of a tough Western Illinois team. The football squad paid a visit to cross-town Wesleyan, where they defeated a previously undefeated Titan squad by a close 16-14 margin. The game was marked with excitement and tension as ISU controlled the ball for three quarters via the ground. Wesleyan roared back for two touchdowns, making Stan Petty's thirty-eight yard field goal the deciding margin of victory. The highly spirited contest, which saw an IWU touchdown run called back, followed by the ejection of a Wesleyan player for attacking an official, marked the fourth straight win for ISU and their sixteenth victory over Wesleyan. The twin city series includes seventy-five victories for Wesleyan and thirty-one for State with the two schools fighting to a draw nine times.

Post season honors for Illinois State team members was the election of Stan Petty, end, and defensive specialist Tom Major to the IIAC conference first team while Petty joined defensive end Britt Farroh on Max Seibel's All-State college eleven. ISU teammates honored co-captain and senior quarterback John Court by voting him the most valuable player.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Coach Plans Future

ISU back steps over blockers for needed yardage.

With a strong defensive team effort and a fine passing attack, Illinois State University's first all-freshmen football squad completed their season with two victories and two defeats. Despite their average team record, State's main objective, developing players capable of serving on ISU's varsity, appears to have been achieved. According to Coach Milt Weisbecker, this year's squad had more potential than a fine 1963 junior varsity team which ran up an impressive undefeated season. With emphasis on development, Weisbecker tried to give as many players as possible an opportunity to compete; he put into action a three platoon system which allowed at least thirty-three men to see action in each encounter.

Among the varsity hopefuls who made impressive showings were Jerry Kinnikin, Art Newbrough, Arnold Giles, Rich Mann, Lee Boyko, and Steve Bjornstad. Kinnikin, rated as a fine passer, was the most impressive of five quarterbacks throwing to receivers Newbrough and Giles. Mann and Boyko handled the offensive halfback positions while powerful six foot one inch, two hundred and twenty-five pound Bjornstad operated at fullback. Top line prospect Mike Eddings did a fine job at both offensive and defensive tackle while Bob Court, working at either center or linebacker, and defensive specialists Dick Zimmerman, Rick Shemansky, and Jerry Williams appeared as potential varsity material. Other hopefuls for next season include guard Mike Battista and linemen Ron Sanford, Dave Daniels, Bruce Munsell, and Brian Wisner.

CROSS COUNTRY Cogdal's Last Year, Struggle For Team

Illinois State University's cross country season was one of surprise and sentiment. The State team began the season with only three returning lettermen and a host of candidates for the remaining two spots. Surprises began early while sentiment was always present as the cross country men tried to make Coach Joe Cogdal's final season a success.

The State squad began their season with a surprise trouncing of Millikin. Gary Coffman led ISU's distance runners to a perfect score, downing the Decatur school 15 to 40 in a downpour. This marked the twenty-fifth time in thirty-one years that an Illinois State squad gained this victory. The success proved to be the beginning of the end of a winning season, as ISU found the going rough for the remainder of the season. While lettermen Gary Coffman and Mike Askew were consistently leading runners, neither was to capture a first place for State after the opening meet in Decatur.

Coach Cogdal's final season saw the team finish with a three and five record while finishing a dead last in the IAC Conference encounter. While the 1964 season will not go down as the best for Cogdal's thirty-seven year career, the veteran ISU coach has a great many thrills and accomplishments to look back on. Cogdal is credited with fostering the Inter-collegiate Cross Country Association, serving as president in 1959. His teams have posted twenty-four cross country titles, winning sixty-three per cent of their meets. Cogdal is also credited with coaching fourteen individual champions, originating the double dual meets, pioneering team uniforms, and founding state invitational meets.

Coach Joe Cogdal, whose teams have won twenty-four titles, concluded his final season of coaching in 1964.

With a veteran squad which featured eight returning lettermen, Coach Archie Harris' ISU swimming team concluded their 1964-65 season with an amazing 12-3 dual meet record and a fine second place finish in the IAC meet held at Horton pool.

While Northern Illinois proved to be too much for State's swim team, they fought all the way before settling for a second place showing in the conference encounter. During the two day meet State's Dick Kirgan won three individual titles and set a pool record of 49.8 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle on his way to being named the meet's "Outstanding Performer." In addition to Kirgan's championships, other firsts were captured by Captain Rudi Timmerman, 200-yd. backstroke; Dick Barsema, 1,650-yd. freestyle; and Bud Berning, diving.

During the regular season Coach Harris received consistently good performances from his veteran squad as they lost meets to only Central Michigan, Indiana State, and Evansville.

In addition to his conference champions Harris counted heavily upon Van Miller, second in conference diving; Greg Freeman, second in 200-yd. backstroke; Rich Russell, distance freestyle specialist; Terry Shoup, breaststroke; Dick Regez, backstroke; Dick Noon, freestyle; and transfer student Jim Sloan.

Besides holding the IAC meet, Illinois State University was also the site of the NCAA College Division National Meet. The NCAA meet drew outstanding performers from throughout the United States.

Cruser has the ball, but there isn't any place to go.

A season of woe is the best way to sum up the basketball year for Illinois State University's 1964-65 Redbird team. Coach Jim Collie's Birdies never even got off the ground as they won only six games and dropped eighteen varsity contests.

While the season proved to be one marked by little excitement, the Redbirds did manage to have their moments of glory. Perhaps the most satisfying victories for the State basketballers were their wins over Western Illinois and the University of Wisconsin (Milwaukee). In the Western encounter the Birdies refused to give up as they fought the Leathernecks all the way before finally winning in overtime.

While the Western game was a close call the Milwaukee game saw the red and white run all over the court in running up a one-sided 104-83 victory. The Birds' total of 104 counters was the highest score ever recorded in Horton Fieldhouse. In addition to their record breaking point total the Redbirds shot a percentage of .527, a Fieldhouse record.

Other highlights of the basketball team's disappointing season included their 109-88 victory over

Sioux Falls in the Nebraska Christmas tournament and the presence of major college competition in the form of Western Michigan and Washington University of St. Louis. While the Birdies lost twice to Washington University and once to Western Michigan, they did manage to give WMU a run for their money in the first half before yielding.

In analyzing the 1964-65 Redbirds, it appears that their main problems were in defense and rebounding. While Illinois State was putting points through the hoop at the rate of 78.2 per game, their opponents were taking advantage of a weak defense by pouring in 84.5 points per ball game.

The apparent lack of rebounding is quite visible when one looks at the final summary of statistics and finds State's leading rebounder, Duane Brumlinga, averaging only 8.9 rebounds per game.

Throughout most of the season Coach Collie and the rest of the Redbird team were forced to fall back on the leadership of senior guard John Cruser. Cruser, named the team's "Most Valuable Player," averaged 19.5 points per game.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

Wasem Trains

Desire, determination, a will to learn, and an excellent attitude with plenty of team spirit were all characteristics of this year's freshmen basketball team, according to their coach Jim Wasem.

Coach Wasem appeared very optimistic in discussing the possibilities of some of his squad members' chances of moving into a key spot on next season's varsity Redbirds. The main purpose and goal of the freshmen squad is to develop and learn skills which will benefit ISU teams in the years to come. This year's freshmen squad, according to Wasem, worked toward, and he feels accomplished, this goal.

While the team finished above the five hundred mark for the season, their main accomplishment was not their winning record but their ability to learn quickly and apply the knowledge in a direction which will, it is hoped, lead to better varsity teams.

During the season's play the freshmen concentrated mainly on defensive skills and fundamentals. In looking ahead to next season some of the more accomplished varsity candidates appear to include guards George Terry, Jeff Kolb, and Jerry McGreal. Added height should join Coach Collie's squad next season in the persons of Al Krieg, 6'4"; Ken Young, 6'3"; Steve Arends, 6'4"; Bill Hansen, 6'4"; and Bob Brewe, 6'7". Arends and McGreal shared scoring honors for the junior Redbirds while Arends also captured top rebounding honors.

Led by the IAC's "Most Outstanding Gymnast," Paul Ziert, Illinois State's gymnastics team finished a tough ten meet schedule by capturing a surprising second place in the conference meet. This finish enabled them to receive an invitation to the national NAIA meet at Kansas State College in Fort Hayes.

Coach Wayne O. Truex's veteran squad started the season with four straight wins before going into a tail spin which lasted until their surprising effort in the conference encounter.

Leading gym team member, Paul Ziert, concluded his four year career with an amazing one man show at the IAC finals. The slim built Ziert captured the meet's "Outstanding Athlete Award" while winning first place honors in free exercise, tumbling, and long horse vaulting. In addition he also placed second in trampoline, third in all-round competition, and fifth on the high bar. The only other State performer to finish above a fourth place spot was Tom Kordewick, who captured a third on the trampoline.

Members of the ISU gym team who competed in post season action were Ziert, Kordewick, Neil Whittington, Dan Malloy, John Fussner, and Jim Furrow.

During the tough season schedule, which included a double dual meet with Big Ten opponents Indiana and Iowa, Coach Truex counted heavily on key performers to make up for the lack in team depth. In addition to the group which made the Kansas trip to the NAIA, other ISU performers included Dick Rounds, side horse specialist; Larry Conant, parallel bars; and Joe Long, horizontal bar.

One oddity which occurred during the gymnasts' regular meet schedule, in which they finished with an even five wins and five losses, was the fact that they posted only one victory in their home meets at Horton Fieldhouse. That victory was over the University of Chicago, 61.5 to 58.5.

WRESTLING

Grapplers Win Conference Crown

Under the new head coach Bob Koehler, Illinois State's wrestling squad brought fame and glory to the campus by capturing the IAC first place trophy. The wrestlers edged conference foe Eastern Illinois by a slim margin of 65-64 to successfully defend their title; they captured the championship trophy for the second year from strong opposition.

Gaining top individual honors for the Redbird wrestlers were Willie Williams and Mike Manahan. Williams won a tough 1-0 match over Eastern's Don Neece in the 191-lb. division to pace State's come-from-behind victory. Manahan easily disposed of his opponent with a 6-3 decision. Manahan's victory marked the sixteenth straight win for the ISU team.

Important second place points were captured by ISU wrestlers Gary Giardini, Jim Runchak, Jed Walker, and Joe Fields. Adding third place points to the State total were Mark Walker and Bob Clark.

While the championship highlighted the year's activities, ISU's wrestlers can point with pride to other meets throughout the year which illustrated their skills. The wrestling team captured first place honors in the ISU Quadrangular and the Millikin Invitational, in addition to being invited to the NAIA.

In four outdoor meets the trackmen finished third three times and fourth once while posting a record of four wins and one loss in dual meet competition. In the only indoor meet in which team points were kept, Coach Joe Cogdal's team ran over the visiting Bradley Braves 84-29 in the first indoor meet ever held at Illinois State University. Senior letter-winner Mike Mittelstaedt continually led the Birds in individual performances. The veteran distance runner led the way during State's third place finish at the State

Intercollegiate Track and Field Meet by setting a school record in the two mile run with a time of 9:14. Top spots were also grabbed by Stan Petty and Tom Powell. Powell successfully defended his high jump title by leaping six feet one inch while Petty won the discus contest with a heave of one hundred forty-five feet five inches. Petty and Mittelstaedt led the Birdies in their fourth place conference finish. Captain Mittelstaedt captured the only ISU first place trophy by winning the two mile event for the second straight year while Petty set a school record in the shot put which placed him third in that event.

Hurdlers Phil Johnson and Bill McConkey strain for that little extra which means victory.

Pitchers who hit better than hitters and hitters who pitched better than pitchers combined to provide an interesting but below par 1964 season for Illinois State's baseball team. Sophomore Phil Dinelli, who started the season as a pitcher and ended as regular first-baseman, led the ISU squad in hitting with a .369 mark. Dinelli was also the team leader in extra base hits with four doubles, five triples, and one home run. The Redbird players, coached for the first year by B. H. "Duffy" Bass and Jim Wasem, hit .241 as a team but were not able to finish above the .500 mark. They posted an overall record of thirteen wins and nineteen losses including four victories and eight defeats in the Interstate Interscholastic Athletic Conference.

Jerry Ross, Redbird leftfielder, and veteran third baseman Claude Kracik combined with Dinelli to provide head Coach Bass' squad with a potent batting order. Ross was the leader in runs batted in with fourteen during the thirty-two game season while Kracik had the most hits with thirty-one and was second in batting average with a .313 mark.

Redbird second baseman Bill Bellnap scampers back to first during eleven inning loss to Wesleyan.

In the pitching department State hurler Clyde "Junior" Odle had the best earned run mark of the regulars with a 2.72 average to go along with two wins and two defeats. Handling most of the pitching duties were Henry "Irish" O'Reilly and veteran letterman Bill Evans. The southpaw hurling O'Reilly turned in a respectable 2.83 earned run average while Evans posted a mark of 3.30. O'Reilly won two games while dropping six. Evans, who finished at five and five for the season, fittingly christened Illinois State's new baseball diamond when he blanked Lewis College 1-0 in a no-hit performance. This marked the second time the veteran right hander held State's opponents hitless. Two years ago he accomplished this feat against a tough Southern Illinois team in an IAC contest.

State's Redbirds opened their season with a southern training tour which saw them post three wins and five defeats against some of the strongest teams in the country. The Birds opened their southern visit by dropping a heartbreaking 1-0 contest to Southwestern College of Memphis. ISU's second training session pitted them against Southwestern Louisiana's Lions, three-time champions of the Gulf States Conference. The Lions were far too advanced for Illinois State's young ball club, downing the Redbirds twice, 8-1 and 10-5. The baseball team found the winning trail much easier from here on as they won three straight games, defeating Keesler Air Force Base and Mississippi College twice.

Perhaps the highlight of State's hot and cold season was their three game sweep over visiting conference foe Central Michigan. The three victories accounted for the first series sweep since the Redbirds defeated Central Michigan in 1961. The most heartbreaking defeat of the long season came at the hands of cross-town rival Illinois Wesleyan. Veteran hurler Len Ackman threw curves and fastballs past the Titans for ten scoreless innings only to lose in the eleventh. Wesleyan loaded the bases on a walk and two bunts with the winning runs coming across on a pass ball, a wild pitch, and a weak hit.

Captain and catcher Bob Grisolano strides forward in anticipation of base hit.

Illinois State Captures IIAC Crown

Illinois State University's highflying Redbirds provided an excellent finish to a very successful season by presenting Coach Eugene Hill with the IIAC championship trophy. The Birdie team made a rout of the conference meet by rolling over second place finisher Eastern Illinois, 21 to 13. State's twenty-one points were provided by singles winners Jim Whitman, Bill Powell, Lothar Peistrup, and Roger Nimess along with the doubles team of Powell and Peistrup. The conference victory marked the eighth time that the Redbirds have won the league crown since the first tournament held in 1950.

In addition to their championship finish Coach Hill's well-balanced squad ran up an impressive string of thirteen victories as compared to only five defeats. The Redbirds started their season by compiling an impressive 3-1 record for their annual spring vacation tour. The team downed Northeast Missouri 5-4 and crushed Central Missouri and Rolla School of Mines by identical scores of 8-1 before dropping a close 5-4 decision to Murray State. ISU's tennis squad put final wraps on the season by honoring team Captain Rich Snowberg and junior letterman Bill Powell. Snowberg was elected by his teammates as recipient of the most valuable player trophy while Powell, conference champion at the number three singles spot and winner of fifteen matches during the season, was elected captain for 1965.

GOLF

An Even Finish

Jerry Diamond winds up for fairway wood shot.

Inconsistency is the only word which adequately sums up Illinois State University's 1964 golf season. Coach Milt Weisbecker's golfers were continually plagued with the inconsistency problem brought about by the lack of experienced squad members. While the top six, Mike Orrison, Ed Fey, Rusty Wells, Richie Green, Jerry Diamond and Dick Rapp, took turns having their good days, no one member of the team could manage to set the pace week after week to provide the margin of victory for State.

One bright point in new Coach Weisbecker's favor is the thought of his entire squad returning for another season. While the Redbirds were driving and putting their way to eleven wins, eleven losses, and two ties, their campaign was being marked by individual and team honors which pegged them for future successes. The Redbirds put an appropriate clincher to their five hundred season when they finished in the middle of the IAC pact by placing third at the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Golf Championship at the Silver Lakes Country Club in Orland Park. ISU defeated Central Michigan and Eastern Illinois but lost out in a tough battle with Northern Illinois for the second slot. High man for ISU was freshman Mike Orrison, who captured second place in the tournament.

ISU Shares Her President

Dr. Bone shares popcorn with Rev. O'Brien at ball game.

PRESIDENT BONE

A void was felt at Homecoming this year; for the first time since he came to Illinois State, President Bone was unable to share in Homecoming activities. He was representing his country and this university in an extended study of Egyptian higher education. November 6 President Bone returned to campus, and thousands of students welcomed him home at a surprise reception. The mutual warmth and respect between the President and his student body were manifest at this occasion which set the mood of cooperation and progress that dominates the President's policies. Although ISU students missed their President, the excitement of his return will long be remembered with a feeling of warmth.

From his offices in Hovey Hall, the President administers all university policy.

ADMINISTRATIVE COUNCIL

A Framework for Activity

The administration which is the executive branch of our University serves as the framework for campus activity. Directly responsible to the President and in turn to the Teacher's College Board is the Administrative Council. This council does not establish policy; it merely interprets it. Members of the council are Dean Arthur Larsen, Dr. Erie Johnson, Dean Richard Hulet, Dr. Harold Gibson, Dr. James Fisher, Dean Francis Belshe, Dean Arlan Helgeson, Dr. Gertrude Hall, Dean Anna Keaton, Dean John Gillis, and Mr. Preston Ensign.

But the Administrative Council does not represent the entire administrative organization. The assistant deans, under the Dean of Women and Dean of Men, work closely with students through their counseling services. Other services are provided for students through the offices of the Director of University Union, Director of Health Services, Director of University Housing, Director of Student Financial Aids, Coordinator of Foreign Student Services, and Coordinator of Student Activities.

UNIVERSITY SERVICES

For Students

All students are familiar with some of the facilities offered by the University Services. All dorm residents secure their meals from the food services; seniors utilize the information made available through the Bureau of Appointments. But many offices exist unknown to the students who use their facilities every day. Among these is the photographic service that put into picture form the outstanding campus activities. The mail service processed and distributed campus mail while the duplication office performed clerical jobs for faculty and students.

Employees of the duplicating service run off tests.

Among the student body of Illinois State this year were students whose homes are in China, Thailand, Hong Kong, Egypt, Nigeria, Iran, Viet Nam, Philippines, Panama, Cuba, England, Germany, Canada, and Greece. The office of Foreign Student Services is available to these students. Miss Winegarner spent several months in Asia and Africa visiting with former ISU students, faculty, and the families of current students. The trip was also planned for the purpose of gathering information about preliminary requirements established for admissions by foreign governments.

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

Since the early school years of a child are of greatest importance, the Division of Elementary Education worked to strengthen its program, thus providing better teachers. The division completed plans for an ISU elementary major to spend her junior year in Copenhagen, Denmark. Fifteen students observed the opening week of school at elementary schools in their own communities and used guide sheets to make evaluations of the project. Elementary majors specialized in the areas of primary, intermediate, and junior high education. Further departmentalization came with the use of resource areas and with the help of nine advisers for these specialized areas of study.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

Helping the Student Adjust

Dr. Harold R. Phelps
Head of Division of Special Education

For the first time the Division of Special Education had thirty-one people on stipends from the federal government. Also the division initiated a complete student counseling and advising program. Under the direction of Dr. Hage, this program established an adviser for each area of special education to whom students could go for programming and counseling. This was the year of expanded graduate enrollment. Last year, the division had seven graduate students; this year they have twenty, ten students of whom were on fellowships. A seminar curriculum laboratory in the solarium was officially opened. Classes in speech and hearing were re-orientated. A new course, Behavior Disorders in Children, was offered for the first time to undergraduate and graduate students.

AGRICULTURE

A Living Laboratory

Crops and livestock, consisting of high quality herds of beef, sheep, swine, and dairy cattle, were used for classroom and laboratory teaching. These animals were also used for research projects. But the activities of the Agriculture department were not all formal. An annual western horse show began as an experimental event and, because of its success, became an annual event along with a livestock judging contest. Because the tremendous agriculture industry of the United States is becoming concentrated among fewer people, it is highly important that the training received by the future agriculturist is of the highest standard. The policy of the Department of Agriculture at ISU this year continued to develop and to enhance the course offerings.

ART

The World on Canvas

As the Art department added more space for classrooms and offices, it acquired more teaching aids, equipment, and instructors. The slide collection for graduate and undergraduate work in art history doubled within the past year and a half. Equipment for art work is increasing with the soon-to-be-acquired electric potter's wheel for the ceramics department. A new metals area was added to make possible work with hollow ware in precious metals, welding equipment for sculpture in heavy metals, and a multi-lith printing press for use in advanced advertising courses. The addition of several new staff members, competent in areas of research techniques, made possible a research center for art education.

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES

Discovering Life

The year old science annex on ISU's campus represented the enlarging scope of biology. For the first time introductory biology was offered as a laboratory course. As users of the new equipment found in the science annex, students should have a better understanding of biological principles. Among the new instruments acquired this year was an electron microscope. One of the earliest programs in connection with the new microscope was instruction of a limited number of faculty members in the use and care of this valuable piece of equipment. Much time was devoted to establishing and organizing the electron microscope laboratory and developing study aids.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Automation Grows

The business curriculum provided students with additional course offerings using the digital computer and business data processing equipment. Research begun in the Business department's laboratory this year showed increasing efficiency in learning shorthand through the electronic secretary. In the practical application of knowledge, advertising and retailing students were aided by the area's larger stores which contributed merchandise and props for displays in the new model store classroom at Turner Hall. The Theta Omicron Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda completed an active year with an eventful spring conference in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Business Education department.

Dr. Frank N. Philpot
Head of Department of Education and Psychology

The basic responsibility for the professional education lies in the Department of Education and Psychology. Emphasis is placed in two areas. The first is the psychological basis for child behavior and learning; the second deals with the attitudes, philosophies, methods, and skills needed to become successful teachers. The Center for Educational Administration occupied new facilities which enabled it to function in an advisory capacity to those school systems seeking help. This year also marked an increase in the number of resident students working toward the Master's, Specialist, and Doctor's degrees.

ENGLISH

Introducing Honors Sections

The English department in cooperation with the University of Illinois participated in Project English, which encompassed research on preparation of English teachers for junior high school. Dr. Beauchamp returned from working on Project English at Hunter College in New York City, where he studied the culturally deprived of that area. By attending the National Council of Teachers of English in Cleveland, Ohio, representatives of the staff brought new ideas for building a better, well-informed English department at Illinois State University.

Dr. Hill teaches an honors English section offered for the first time this year.

Convinced at long last that we cannot learn another man's language in two years, Americans have put foreign languages into the elementary schools. Illinois State University is helping to prepare teachers in this fast-growing field by offering courses in French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish, as well as classical Greek and Latin. The Foreign Language department has focused new emphasis upon the spoken tongue. One can hear language students practicing their skills in the language laboratories, on the campus, at lunch, or over coffee at the Red Door.

GEOGRAPHY

A Physical Approach

The completion of the Schroeder annex gave breathing room to the Geography department. The department has undergone a complete reorganization in terms of both space and the installation of new equipment. The annex provided two new geology labs with a connecting preparation room and an earth science laboratory. The availability of a large lecture room helped ease the problem of teacher shortage and a new cartographic lab made learning more realistic and practical. New equipment included a continuous temperature and dew point recorder and a rainfall duration and intensity recorder. The department now has all the basic instruments which are necessary for both research and teaching of climatic study.

MEN'S HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

New Facilities Expand Program

Beginners in golf are instructed by members of the Physical Education department on the new Illinois State golf course.

Dr. Burton L. O'Connor
Head of Department of Health and Physical Education for Men

The Department of Health and Physical Education for Men through its new facilities can now teach classes in seven different gymnasiums at the same time. These new facilities include two basketball courts in each gym, a wrestling room, a weight training room, and a new swimming pool. These are only a few of the facilities available in the department for the physical and intellectual training of male students. Among others are an auditorium, track fields, seven volleyball courts, twelve badminton courts, and two tennis courts.

WOMEN'S HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Acquiring a Gym

This year the Department of Health and Physical Education for Women took over the complete facilities of McCormick Gymnasium for women's use. More co-ed dance and fencing classes were made available when the first floor was remodeled. Seven or eight fencing classes were offered rather than the previous two. The department added a man to its staff to teach folk and social dancing classes. McCormick Field had a complete face lifting when the new tennis courts were officially opened in the fall. More space was provided for field hockey, speedball, and soccer. Six sections of campercraft were available. The field is being remodeled to better meet the needs of physical education for women.

HOME ECONOMICS A New Horizon

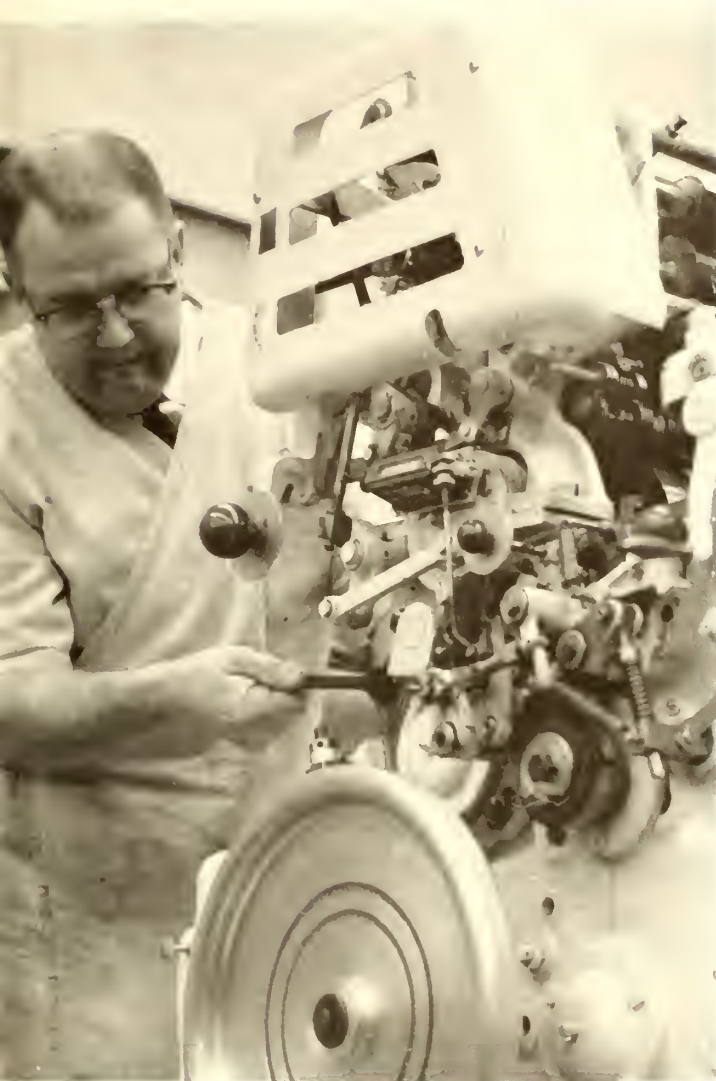

Dr. Florence Davis
Head of Department of Home Economics

Child care becomes living experience in nursery.

The role of the Home Economics department grew as home economics became integrated with the elementary curriculum from kindergarten through sixth grade. The graduate program was enlarged with the addition of more research in the area of nutrition. The department added textile equipment, enabling more experiment in the research of textiles. Increasing the historic costume and slide collections gave to the undergraduate a background of costume and design and to the graduate student a broader overview. These curriculum additions are evidence that the Home Economics department is accepting its growing role.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS A Varied Course

Dr. Charles B. Porter
Head of Department of Industrial Arts

The curriculum in industrial arts is expanding along with the facilities and equipment. The curriculum included the areas of drafting, electricity, electronics, general shop, graphic arts, metalwork, power mechanics, woodworking, and traffic and safety education. Industrial education provided a program for the exceptional children going to school here on campus. The new and modern facilities in the general shop laboratory at ISU provided an opportunity for students to work in various areas such as crafts, drawing, electricity, graphic arts, metals, and woods. This variety of equipment made possible practical experiences in organizing and operating a multiple activity type of industrial arts program.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

From One Room

A previous one-room department was changed into three classrooms, a multi-purpose room, and a cataloging laboratory with the opening of the new annex to Milner. The Library Science department had a thirty per cent increase in total enrollment during one semester. New equipment included storage rooms rather than corners in the stacks and display cases used to advertise high school libraries. To meet these new demands, all courses were reorganized with a special emphasis upon school librarianship. Two new courses, Human Records in Libraries and Trends in Librarianship, were planned for fall.

The expanding Mathematics department added three courses which will be offered at the 1965 summer session. These courses, Principles of Digital Computers, Numerical Analysis, and a graduate course, Differential Geometry, were all offered for the first time at this university. These additions reflect the fact that mathematics is one of the most rapidly developing fields in all the sciences. The Mathematics department set a new high for enrollment with 487 undergraduate majors in mathematics. As of September 1965, twenty-three permanent members of the faculty will teach these majors. At the close of the second semester twenty masters and ninety-five bachelors degrees were granted in mathematics.

Modern Science

An Applied Art

The new addition to Centennial provided the Music department with a new lecture hall for recitals and classes.

Dr. Howard H. Rye
Head of Department of Music

The interest in applied music has greatly increased in the past few years so it was necessary to find more space at Illinois State University for private lessons and recitals. To accomplish this change, the Music department was given space for private studios in Centennial's new addition. The lecture hall was used at night for the regularly scheduled recitals. Another new addition this year was the clinic for high school bands and choruses. This clinic, organized like a concert, had a judge who gave no ratings but offered suggestions to the performers after the performances. The faculty quartet had a series of exchange concerts with various universities around the state, the first of which was with Bradley.

PHYSICAL SCIENCES

Probing for Ideas

The Physical Science department has many new facilities due to the opening of the annex to the science building. Both fields of the department, physics and chemistry, have made many advancements. A new course, Instrumental Methods of Analysis, is now a dual-level course offered to undergraduate and graduate students in physics. Another new course, Electronics for Scientists, was offered for graduate students in physics. The addition of new equipment strengthened the laboratory phases of the general physics and the advanced lab program. This unusually well-equipped lab allowed pairs of students to work according to their backgrounds.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Society Studied as a Science

Electric computers process statistics for social scientists.

Dr. Benjamin J. Keeley
Head of Department of Social Science

The past year was a record year for the Social Science department. It had more students offered national scholarships, more students continuing on to graduate school, and a higher scholastic average among its majors than in any previous year. The department ordered several thousand books for use in Milner Library and in this most recent academic year subscribed to one hundred and fifty new periodicals. Large lecture rooms with overhead microphones that enabled students to ask questions and be heard throughout the room were made available with the completing of the Schroeder annex. Compared to other departments, Social Science has made little physical growth during the past year; instead, its growth has been in the form of academic progress.

Speech students practice at ISU's closed circuit station.

Head of Department of Speech

Public speaking, play direction, oral reading, radio and television announcing are usually considered as extra-curricular activities. But to the Department of Speech such activities are as important as the theoretical curriculum; therefore, for many years the department has wished that more direct experience could be given to those students who have aspirations to direct high school plays, but facilities have never been available. It was with considerable enthusiasm and anticipation that the Speech department marked 1965 as the year when two experimental theatres were opened. Now students were able to experiment in the theatrical medium and have the privilege of directing before teaching.

STUDENT TEACHING

A Combination Student and Teacher

The first day of student teaching brings anticipation of the weeks to come. No matter how confident the student teacher is, the first day of unfamiliar faces and confusion makes him wonder if his preparation is adequate and if those weeks ahead will be met with success. One must use all the knowledge and experience he has acquired in this first contact with the world of teaching. As the students smile and say, "That's the new teacher," one suddenly becomes that teacher with the realization of new responsibilities and the excitement of a new challenge. There will be continuous preparation and constant self-evaluation ahead, but there will be opportunities for valuable learning.

The student teacher has successfully adapted himself to the routine of studying during his four years of college. But in this new situation, he discovers that he must organize his schedule in a different way. He can no longer enter a classroom unprepared, for he has the responsibility of creating the atmosphere of intellectual curiosity.

Intensive study is demanded of him. He must thoroughly understand the ideas and theories which comprise his field and see how they relate to all other fields of inquiry. He must understand his students as individuals, for each has special needs to be met and goals to be achieved. Through careful lesson preparation, he can be instrumental in helping students gain new insights into their own problems. By carefully grading papers and preparing Supervised study is an important element in typing class. Student teachers must learn to guide students during such periods.

Mrs. Ellen Orr meets the challenges of student teaching as she watches students work at the blackboard.

Daily Preparation Requires Work

One of her duties is to promote class participation.

Lecture is an important art that must be mastered by the prospective teacher; here Gary Wilson lectures to a biology class.

An Unique Learning Experience for Both the Student and the Teacher tests, the student teacher learns to evaluate a student's work critically but not to stifle independent thinking. Although the student teacher is often exhausted at the end of the school day, he still must be available for student conferences, discussions with his supervising teacher, or faculty meetings.

One of the rewards of this experience is to see the students interested in their studies, showing excitement over a project, contributing to class discussion, and improving understandings. Each individual becomes important, a special challenge to handle, and a smile of understanding and interest can make weeks of work worthwhile. Students become more than pupils to teach; they are lively individuals with diverse interests. Sometimes they are indifferent, sometimes receptive, and always enjoyable for the student teacher who works with them.

The student teacher is the combination of a working faculty member and a student who must learn from the assignment. Being a part of the faculty gives new insight into the school system and brings further understanding of the educational profession. There are opportunities to exchange ideas and incidents with the critics and with teachers in other fields. These conversations are interesting and add to the learning-teaching situation.

As the student teacher gains confidence and begins evaluating his teaching, he will think of the work, the rewards, and the excitement of learning. Each day is unique. That last cup of coffee in the faculty lounge after classes will give one the chance to look back on the day with the realization that the next will also bring challenges and opportunities for a truly enjoyable experience.

Teaching involves individual conferences.

A good student teacher should encourage his students to do their own creative thinking and writing.

GRADUATE STUDENTS

The Researcher

The summer of 1964 was of great importance to graduate students. In August, Illinois State University gave its first advanced degree, Specialist in Education, to Odessa Myer. This was the first degree given beyond the master's degree. The first master's degree was given in history instead of the usual social science degree. The North Central Association gave preliminary accreditation for the doctoral and specialist programs. The completion of the new science facilities in the science building annex and the new library facilities, such as additional carrels, has given more space for graduate students.

The Atomic Energy Commission authorized a grant for graduates to study mutation in bread molds.

Graduate Dick Worthen studies in the new graduate carrels.

SENIOR ADVISORY BOARD

The realization that the goal of college is nearly accomplished together with the apprehension of facing a new, even more challenging world fills the thoughts of ISU seniors. As preparation is polished during this final year, the seniors become the group ready to test and apply their teacher training. Before the long-awaited graduation day arrives, there are numerous details of planning for the commencement program, selecting the speaker and choosing the appropriate class gift. Carrying through with these preparations is the major responsibility of the Senior Advisory Board. All seniors are given the opportunity to take part in preparation for "their day" by relating suggestions to the Senior Advisory Board, which transmits them to a smaller committee.

JUNIOR ADVISORY BOARD

The junior year is a time during which many students find themselves reminiscing about hours of lively excitement as underclassmen and at the same time looking ahead to a future of meaningful responsibility. Out of the confusion, the junior begins to solve complex problems concerning realistic goals and ambitions. The questioning does not cease; however, it becomes directed in meaningful searching.

Since most juniors are individually experiencing similar thoughts, as a class they find that sharing ideas helps them to analyze and to reach valid conclusions. The feeling of class spirit is emphasized by the Junior Advisory Board through encouragement of class participation. Activities sponsored mainly for that purpose this year included the Alumni Association's Homecoming float, two record dances, and "Come What May," the Junior-Senior Prom.

SOPHOMORE ADVISORY BOARD

With a year of experience behind him, the sophomore progresses in all aspects of school life—both academic and extracurricular—that ISU has to offer. The sophomore's extracurricular activities were organized by the Sophomore Advisory Board. By being a member of the board, the student accepted responsibilities and offered leadership in different areas of activity. To welcome the students to ISU in the fall, the board presented an all school dance in September. In came the holiday season of Halloween and Homecoming and the board directed the building of the Queen's float, which was decorated in vivid fall colors. The sophomores presented the one spring formal of the year, the Sophomore Cotillon. A scene of a Southern plantation and the name of "Twilight over Tara" invited students to take time out from the academic life to join the sophomores in a night of social whirl.

FRESHMAN ADVISORY BOARD

When the freshman arrives on campus, he is whirled away by a rigorous academic life and by seemingly overwhelming jobs. The anxieties are many and the decisions seem difficult. One of the groups that directed the activities of freshmen was the Freshman Advisory Board. This board decides what endeavors the class will undertake and then executes these decisions with as much efficiency as possible. This past year the class of 1968 has promoted several projects. Among these was a Christmas project called "Stuff a Stocking." The proceeds from the project were sent to two boys' homes. Another activity, sponsored by the ad board, was FABA—Freshman Advisory Board Announces. This was a program on WGLT, the campus radio station, for the unification of the class. A freshman newsletter also attempted to inform students of campus activities and to urge participation.

IN MEMORY

Disregarding previous policy, the staff have chosen to dedicate the 1965 Index to Mr. Edvard J. Bryan, who died on April 7, 1965. Ed had served our yearbook for 30 years as the representative of Pantagraph Printing & Stationery. We remember him not only as a competent, helpful co-worker, but as a dear friend. Feeling a personal loss, the staff wish to dedicate their efforts to Ed Bryan.

75 editions ago the campus of Illinois State University was first introduced to the Index. Today the Index is a living tradition; it is a tradition which is observed by a few but respected by many. Since the university annual represents the spirit and personality of a school for a particular year, it is the duty of the yearbook staff to define that personality.

I chose to fulfill this responsibility by a pictorial representation. The cover was designed to present the old and traditional at ISU. Perhaps, the dome of Old Main, which sets in the quadrangle, is universally recognized as the symbol of Illinois State's past. Indeed, the past is a very large part of the future at Illinois State University. But the future is also a large part of the present. The endless building and rebuilding that dominated our campus this year witnesses to the growing spirit at ISU. I chose the colorful end sheets and division pages to represent the spirit of progress at Illinois State.

What comes between the cover, the end sheets, and the division pages is self-explanatory. My only hope is that it pleases the students for whom it was compiled by a competent, cooperative staff.
